“Farmer’s Feast” next Saturday, September 13th

River Valley Agritourism Alliance would like to extend an invitation to the general public to attend their third annual “Farmer’s Feast.” The feast is an opportunity for diners to experience the connection between the land, the local food, and the farmers that grow it. It is a tribute to the hard work and talent that bring nourishing food to the community. This unique outdoor fine dining experience will take place at Paradox Farms Bed and Breakfast on Saturday, September 13, 2014. Hors d’oeuvres and wine tasting will begin at 5:30 p.m. and seating for dinner will begin at 6 p.m.

They hope you can join them for this event. Your support of the local farmer is greatly needed. The cost is $25 per person and reservations are required. The reservation provides hors d’oeuvres, wine tasting, dinner beverages, and a four course meal. There is limited seating and they encourage attendees to reserve their seat as soon as possible. For more information, contact (937) 213-1083 or (606) 267-9003.

Six queens were crowned in Saturday evening’s, August 30th, Heritage Days Pageants. Originally scheduled to take place at the Gazebo in Appleman Park, the threat of rain found the pageants moved to the Chapel by the River. Winners for the evening are shown above with Emcee Heather French Henry, our own Miss America 2000. Complete results and pictures for each pageant can be found on pages 5 and 7.

Preventing Type 2 Diabetes program beginning

If you were told you could prevent type 2 diabetes, would you want to find out how? I’m guessing you would say yes!

Well you can!

If you want to learn how, the Bracken County Health Department will be offering such a program. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) established the National Diabetes Prevention Program, an evidence-based lifestyle change program to prevent type 2 diabetes. This program is for people at high risk of developing type 2 diabetes.

The Diabetes Prevention Program research study showed that making modest behavior changes helped participants lose 5% to 7% of their body weight, which is 10-14 pounds for a 200 pound person. These lifestyle changes reduced the risk of developing type 2 diabetes by 58% in people with pre-diabetes.

Participants work with a lifestyle coach in a group setting to receive a 1-year lifestyle change program, that includes 16 core sessions (usually 1 per week) and 6 post-core sessions (1 per month). The National Diabetes Prevention Program teaches participants strategies for incorporating physical activity into daily life and eating healthy.

Lifestyle coaches work with participants to identify emotions and situations that can sabotage their success, and the group process encourages participants to share strategies for dealing with challenging situations.

The National Diabetes Prevention Program will begin on, September 15, 2014, here at the Bracken County Health Department beginning at 6 p.m.

The Hankla collections have been on exhibit at the Lexington Children’s Museum (KY), Newport Aquarium (KY), Norton Center (KY) and several other locations.

The Kentucky Gateway Museum Center is located at 215 Sutton St., Maysville, KY. Call (606)565-5865 for more information or to schedule a group tour. Visit our website at: www.kygmc.org

Frog Derby, Give-a-way winners announced

Metcalfe-Hennessey Funeral Home once again sponsored the ever popular Frog Derby at the Rotary Clubs’ annual Heritage Days Festival. Several of the preliminary rounds resulted in jump offs. Eventually it came down to frogs, Black Widow and Nerf. Anticipation took over the crowd as the frogs both refused to jump over the outside boundary line and just sat as if resting. Finally, Black Widow took the initiative and crossed the line ending the standoff thus declaring Jackson Gaunce winner. Shown in the center above are Kirt Hamilton and mother, Mandie, left, judge Robert Palmer, center, and Jackson Gaunce and father, Brandon, right.

After the frog derby, winners of the give-a-ways were announced. VFW winners were 1st prize - Keltec 9 mm rifle, Jim Thornsbury; 2nd prize - Stihl leaf blower, Allison Parker; and 3rd prize - $100 gas card, Ricky Ruf. Winner of the Rotary Club Glock 9 mm was Ken Coyle. Huff Realty’s winner of the Lenova S 6000 tablet was Billy Cooper. The Fish and Game Club winners were, the Henry 22 - David Fultz and the Country Ham - Dwight Wilson. Fishing tournament winners were Gavin Webster - largest catfish, and Larry Bowling - largest bass.

How Nice to be President

[From Proctor Knott's Speech on the One Term Constitutional Amendment]

A salary of $50,000, a mansion sustained in a style of luxury that few persons dreamed of, furnished, repaired, and heated at an annual expense of $25,000, with very air breathed there perfumed by rare exotics, propagated in a $55,000 garden house, maintained at an annual expense of $5,000.

And a private secretary, at $3,000 a year to do the President's writing; two assistant secretaries, at $2,500 a year to do the work of the private secretary; two clerks at $2,250 to do the work of the assistant secretaries [laughter]; a steward at $2,000 a year to supply the President's table with the choicest wines and richest vi-and that could tempt or satiate his appetite; with $6,000 a year for books, periodicals, stationery, telegrams and [a commercial pause] other contingencies. What that meant, he did not know, but he thanked God for the "contingencies."

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

REVERENCE THYSELF

From ancient times it has been noticed that morality is part of our nature. We cannot help but feel the pangs of conscience when we have sinned and the rewards of self-approval when we have acted justly or charitably. It is not just that we have a conscience, but also that we have the ability to make moral decisions. We are a law unto ourselves. Part of what it means to be moral is that we must decide for ourselves how to act and must take the responsibility for acting. Our conscience, which is our internal sense of right and wrong, is almost always a perfect guide to what we should say and do, if only we have the presence of mind to listen to what we are telling ourselves. Of course it is possible to override our conscience and sin, or to corrupt our conscience by convincing ourselves that sin and vice are not really sin and vice. But, we will pay for it when we refuse to listen to our conscience. The pangs of conscience are impossible to silence, and at some point we must realize that following our conscience is the easier and better path. So, we should reverence ourselves by heeding our conscience. — Christopher Simon

"For when Gentiles, who do not have the law, by nature do what the law requires, they are a law to themselves, even though they do not have the law. They show that the work of the law is written on their hearts, while their conscience also bears witness, and their conflicting thoughts accuse or even excuse them." - Romans 2:14-15

On this Aug. 31, we had 59 to SS and 98 for worship service. We welcome our guests with a hardy handshake and say "you all come back now, you hear?"

Colby Davis was with us today. He is stationed in Alaska and is serving our country. He will be here for 2 weeks. Such a nice young man that loves Jesus.

Congratulations to LeAnn Tucker on being runner-up in volleyball. Her senior pictures are just beautiful!

Our love and Christian sympathy goes out to the family of Ollie Wood. He was so special to us at Chatham and he was ready to meet this Lord and Savior that he loved. He was 99 yrs. old. We will always remember him and Marie.

Jane Nelson played "I Surrender All" and "Just a Closer Walk" for the specials. What a gift she has!

Remember in prayer: John Cooper (now on oxygen. We miss him at church and the great job he does singing), Butch Sutton (taking treatments), Phil Rice (another set back, is back in ICU at UKMC). Keep Heather Ginn and her family in prayer, Verna Tilford, Linda Curtis, and each and every name on the prayer list. Remember all those in the passing of their loved ones. May God bless and comfort you.

Bro. Jackie message was "Trying to Help God". Genesis 16. Which way is better? God's way or your way?

GREETINGS FROM ST. JAMES

by Caroline Jefferson

Msgr. Dominic will celebrate our First Friday Mass, tomorrow, Sept. 5 at 7 p.m. The Mass will be to commemorate the life of Blessed Mother Theresa of Calcutta. Mother Theresa was truly a saint among us and we are so privileged to have lived during her lifetime. We all would do well to follow her example of caring for the most underprivileged, sick and destitute brothers and sisters of our times and we don't even have to go to India to perform these corporal and spiritual works of mercy. There are countless opportunities here at home.

St. James Classes of Religious Instructions will begin this Sunday and all children of kindergarten thru eighth grade need to attend. Just as you are diligent in getting your children to school for elementary, middle and high school education, it is equally important to get your children the religious instructions that they deserve!

May God bless all our sick and home bound parishioners and folks community wide who are dealing with health issues! When we can get up in the morning and say "Good morning God", we know it is going to be a beautiful day!

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI

by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

It is hard to believe that summer has ended. Traditionally, we think of Labor Day as the end of summer even though we may have more hot weather. During the summer, we dress casually on Sunday morning but it will not be long until we get out our dress shirts, ties, and coats.

We had 53 in attendance for worship Sunday. Joyce Gibson was the worship leader, Susie Hargett led the singing, and Shelby England had children's church.

Last week's soup supper was well attended. The food was good as always but one thing stood out and that was the chicken & homemade dumplings. I had not had homemade dumplings for a long time and it brought back good memories.

Our Bread Basket Meal will be Wed., Sept. 10 and we will continue with our grilled meats. We will have grilled meats in October also and then we will put the grill away until after Easter.

We plan to start our coat ministry in either October or November. More about this later.

We have continued with our study of the Book of Ephesians in our adult Sunday School class.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Litter, litter, litter! Such an ugly critter!

How disgusting to use God's land, As your personal garbage can!

When at last you meet your maker, Will He praise you for being a good caretaker,

Of His earth so green and beautiful, Or will you be looking ever so pitiful,

Because from His eternal home you are banned, For when on earth you thoughtlessly and carelessly polluted and trashed His land!

So before it's too late, And you find yourself at the Pearly Gate, Seriously RECONSIDER -- DO NOT LITTER!

This truly is God's land!

Please take care of it and do not destroy it by littering our roadways and waterways!

This precious earth is the only one we have to pass on to our children and grandchildren!

Sincerely,

St. James Women's L.I.F.E. Group

Augusta Art Guild receives new 501(c)3 Tax-Exempt Status

The Augusta Art Guild is pleased to announce that it has been awarded 501(c)3 tax-exempt determination from the Internal Revenue Service. This nonprofit public charity status is a significant accomplishment for the Augusta Art Guild. Up until 2011, the Augusta Art Guild which operated as a 501(c)4 organization. When they temporarily lost their status due to a filing error, the Augusta Art Guild Board immediately addressed the issue by hiring the accounting firm, Clark Schaeffer & Hackett of Cincinnati, Ohio to assist them in the 501(c)3 application process.

"It's always been the belief of our members that we should have received the 501(c)3 determination when the Guild originally applied for nonprofit status in the 1990s," says Augusta Art Guild president, Leah Frederick, "Therefore, the Board felt it had a real opportunity in 2011. It was quite a gamble for us - requiring a significant investment of time and money. All of our records, including financials, had been written in ledgers. So it was a true team effort to gather all the information required by the IRS." She adds, "However, I'd have to admit that waiting for a final decision was the hardest part. It took three years but we're very excited to be recognized as a 501(c)3 organization. The fact that the IRS determined that our effective exemption date was 2011 is just the icing on the cake."

Under the new 501(c)3 determination, the Augusta Art Guild is now qualified to receive tax deductible donations, bequests, devises, transfers, and gifts. The Augusta Art Guild is also eligible to apply for grants and awards specifically designated for 501(c)3 organizations.

"This 501(c)3 status opens a whole new world for us," concludes Ms. Frederick. "Up until now, we've been very fortunate in the generosity of our donors in supporting our mission. This new nonprofit status allows us to cast a much wider net in garnering support. We hope to develop new and exciting ways to promote and support the arts in our community. Personally, I'd love to see development of working studio space in Augusta, an after-school arts program, and more opportunities to introduce the community to the arts."

The Augusta Art Guild is a community-based organization of artists and those who support the arts who believe there are many visual, emotional, and educational experiences that can only be perceived through the arts. As a community-based organization, Augusta Art Guild's primary goal is to bring a deeper appreciation of the arts to the area. The Augusta Art Guild gives back to the community through exhibits, events, and sponsoring performances. Each year, the Augusta Art Guild awards music and art scholarships to deserving local students, and recognizes creative and community efforts by a Guild artist with its annual Bloom Award grant. The Augusta Art Guild also sponsors the annual Art in the Garden exhibit, which is held on the banks of the Ohio River the first Saturday in June.

BCN&RC receives National Accreditation for QAPI Efforts

Bracken Co. Nursing and Rehabilitation Center has received accreditation as a skilled nursing facility actively performing Quality Assurance and Performance Improvement (QAPI) activities. The accreditation, presented by independent accreditor, Providigm, LLC, demonstrates that the facility is continually assessing residents' quality of life with regard to concerns such as pain, dignity, respect for resident choice, and quality of care problems such as whether there are enough staff to meet resident needs, weight loss, infections, rehabilitation following acute injury or illness, and prevention of readmissions to hospital.

"This accreditation signifies that Bracken Co. Nursing and Rehabilitation Center is committed to continuously improving the care that they provide based on feedback from residents and families," says Dr. Andrew Kramer, Providigm CEO, and international expert on measuring quality of elder care. "We congratulate Bracken Co. Nursing and Rehabilitation Center on their commitment to improve the quality of life and care given to our elders."

Unlike other rating systems, the Providigm QAPI Accreditation is based on actions that nursing centers take to identify and correct quality problems. The methodology of QAPI is widely used in various health care settings, and is becoming a major focus of nursing home regulation.

"We are extremely proud of the work our care team has accomplished to achieve this accreditation," said Erich Hayman, Administrator, CEO. "We take quality seriously. We strive to give our residents the quality of life and level of dignity they deserve."

Leah Jefferson attending executive leadership training

A Bracken County principal recently began a year-long executive level leadership training course usually reserved for the nation's top CEOs. Leah Jefferson, Bracken County Middle School, was selected in April to participate in the Kentucky Chamber Foundation's Leadership Institute for School Principals by an advisory board made up of business leaders and school superintendents. Jefferson's participation is sponsored by Crounse Corporation and Taylor-Gray Associates.

Jefferson and 46 other selected principals began attending classes this summer at the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C., a top-ranked global provider of executive education founded in 1970 that established an education and nonprofit section in 1988. The principals will also attend follow-up sessions in the fall and early next year in Kentucky.

Elementary, middle and high school principals from across Kentucky representing both public and private schools applied for the institute, which is supported by generous donations from businesses across the state. So far, more than $2 million has been spent on more than 200 principals from 65 Kentucky counties since the program began in 2011.

"We are proud of the fact that Kentucky is the only state in which the business community has made this kind of investment in its principals," said Chamber President and CEO Dave Adkisson. "Employers understand the positive impact of strong leadership in the workplace, and the same is true of schools. That's why we think it is important Kentucky principals be given executive-level training similar to that provided for corporate leaders."

TRASH TALK

by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug
606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! This is one of the holiday articles that have to be in a week before the paper comes out and we do not mind that at all! The ladies at the News Office deserve to celebrate Labor Day and we hope they, along with everyone else, have a most enjoyable end of summer day!

Unfortunately, because Bin is in the hospital, it is difficult to concentrate on the task at hand! We know that many of you are in the same situation and do the best you can under the circumstances! We pray that by the time you read this, he will be home and well on the road to recovery. While we don't say it often enough, we do pray for all those who are dealing with the illness of oneself or a family member, or other situations that need your urgent and undivided attention now! We have experienced one miracle and we pray that there still may be one or two with our name on it!

Until our medical situation is resolved, we again rely on the help of Stacey Florer and his County Road Department crew for assistance in rotating and emptying the nine recycling trailers. We ask that you please be especially vigilant with recycling material by putting only legitimate recycling items into the trailers.

The last two weeks, we have removed tires from the Foster recycling trailer that is at that location from Monday mid-morning until around 7:15 Wednesday morning. If you have seen anyone putting tires into this trailer, please give us a call. As we have stated many times in the past, it is much more difficult to get these large, bulky items removed from the trailers than it is to put them in it. The Recycling Center personnel do not appreciate tires and other garbage brought into their facility, so please follow the recycling instructions as listed on the trailers!

We will be conducting our third road clean of the year sometime in early October and we have quite a number of groups signed up and ready to roll up their sleeves to get the litter picked up. Hopefully, our litterbugs will go into permanent hibernation and will not litter during the winter months or anytime thereafter!

Ms. Donna Rath of the Soil Conservation District has not yet received word of approval of the grant she applied for that would allow us to place roll-offs throughout the county. If and when she receives a 'yea' or a 'neigh' on this situation, we will let you know.

As the hot summer days wane into crisp fall days, we urge you to continue your commitment to caring for this earth of ours! We cannot continue to use the natural resources that are here at the current alarming rate and then expect our children and grandchildren to have a lifestyle anywhere near what we enjoy! Not only will the resources be extremely limited, but what are left will be extremely expensive! Please do your part by RECYCLING, REUSING and REDUCING to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you - Bin & Bug.

MCTC'S Phi Theta Kappa helps clean-up Limestone Landing

The MCTC Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society recently spent a Saturday morning collecting trash near Limestone Landing in downtown Maysville. Approximately 15 bags of trash along the river bank were gathered during their first clean-up project.

"We decided to do this project because Limestone Landing is a unique feature of Maysville and, in many ways, is the gateway to our community," stated PTK Advisor Robert Boone. "This is especially true lately due to riverboat tourism that uses Limestone Landing as a port."

Phi Theta Kappa is the official honors society of two-year colleges. "More community service projects are in the pipeline, especially as our group continues to grow," claims Boone. If you would like to learn more information or are interested in joining Phi Theta Kappa, contact Mr. Boone at 606-759-7141, ext. 66180.

Helping your teen to navigate peer pressure

Submitted by: Shannon
Smith, CEA for Family and Consumer Sciences

The teenage years can be rough on teens and on parents, as young people strive for independence and parents learn how and when to let go. One of the most common stresses put on teens is peer pressure. While they want to be independent, they do seek acceptance from their peers.

As children grow into adolescence, they begin to devote more time to their friends and peers than their family members. Having friends is good. Friendships help teens navigate these years and can teach them how to form strong, fruitful relationships and ways to work with all kinds of different people, which will be helpful no matter what career they choose. Encourage your teen to form many friendships with a variety of individuals who share similar interests. For example, maybe your teen plays high school sports but is also involved in the school's business club. She can have friends from each group. Having friends in many different groups can also help your child navigate peer pressure, as she will always have a group of friends to go to in case she has a falling out with another group.

Positive peer relationships are very healthy for teens, but sometimes peer relationships can have a negative influence. Friends could have undesirable attributes such as a bad attitude, no ambition, be disrespectful or engage in risky behaviors. They may encourage their friends to do similar things.

As a parent, you can help your child successfully navigate the teen years and resist peer pressure. While you may not think he listens to you any more, he does. Here are some tips:

- Get to know your teen's friends, their dreams for the future, their goals and what they do with their spare time.
- Acquaint yourself with their parents. It will make you more feel more comfortable when you call them to ask if a party at their house is going to have parental supervision.

- Focus on safety. Make sure your child understands you want him and his friends to always engage in safe activities and to look out for each other. If your child finds that his friends are engaging in unsafe activities, encourage him to let an adult know. Reinforce the idea that expressing concern for his friends' safety doesn't make him a tattletale.

- Listen to your child without rushing to judgment or into a lecture. If you quickly rush to judgment, your child may start hiding parts of her life from you, especially if she finds out you don't particularly like a friend or group of friends.

- Let your child always know that he can call you if he does not feel safe or needs to get out of a bad situation.

For more information on parenting topics or information related to childhood development, contact the Bracken County office of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Kentucky and Western Kentucky season openers ... Pretty Work

With college football for context, curious thing the rant of studio talking-head experts, so logical at front end of a weekend, but hard to recognize by Armchair Quarterback meeting on Monday.

South Carolina was a two touchdown favorite against visiting Texas A&M and the Aggies gave the Spurriers a good whuppin'. Closer to home, MAC champion Bowling Green would spank Western Kentucky, they said.

Hmmm.
Here, in Kentucky ... appropriate way to describe what Western Kentucky did to Bowling Green on Friday, and Kentucky to Tennessee-Martin a day later, two words might do. Pretty Work.

In Lexington roughly 8,000 no-shows skipped the turkey shoot, but missed a Show while 50,000-plus Big Blues and Kentucky coach Mark Stoops were aglow after the 59-14 shelling in what we will call the Schedule-Maker Bowl.

Asked to assess his quarterback Patrick Towles's debut, Stoops kept to his credo, keep it simple. "I liked his poise and decision-making."

Indeed. No sign of the shakes Towles was crisp and in charge as he should be against a lightweight foe, start to finish – 20 passes complete on 29 throws, 377 yards, no interceptions.

Most striking items about Kentucky's debut?

1. All new people. "Who are these guys?" someone said.
2. Speed.
3. And a nice little OVC middle-of-the-pack team to break in the training wheels. (They come off for Game 3).
4. Did I mention, speed?
- "They were really fast," UT-Martin QB Jarod Neal understated. "They were faster than our guys and when they needed to make a play, they made the play. They played sound."

√ The words played sound and they were no exaggeration. Two dozen newcomers got onto the Commonwealth turf. Try and digest for a moment: A Kentucky football team with ($EC) speed and depth.

- Efficiency? This side of grey beards like me, who can recall a season opening show by Kentucky that projected as much promise than this one?

- Offense? Five touchdowns from half dozen new Wildcats. Returnee JoJo Kemp had another.

- Braylon Heard's two carries, two dazzling touchdown runs of 73 and 43 yards to remind us of Alfred 'Sonny' Collins (1972-75).

- Defense. Secondary newcomers E.J. Stamps and Kendall Randolph showed flashes of $EC level speed, savvy and aggression glaringly absent in Lexington for more than half a decade.

NEXT. Kentucky is a 10-points-plus favorite this week against visiting Ohio University (1-0). A win, whatever the spread, is relevant only if it becomes a game tape to add to efficiency, reduce six penalties and repeat zero turnovers.

Big Blue faithful know the real story here. As calendar turns to September, Kentucky's real season opener comes next week in Gainesville.

September 13 in The Swamp is far enough off to repeat and refine the Pretty Work.

WESTERN KENTUCKY

Arguably the most impressive items come from Jeff Brohm's first edition Hilltoppers were preparation, poise, (really fast!) pace and production. 59-31.

Western was to Bowling Green what classic Muhammad Ali was to Sonny Liston 50 years ago. Addle him early and be relentless until he surrenders. The Hilltoppers scored 14-or-more points in each quarter.

Quarterback Brandon Doughty was more stand-and-deliver Peyton Manning than a Johnny Football. Of Western's 97 offensive snaps Doughty threw 56 times, completed 46 for a school record 569 yards. No interceptions. By any measure, incredible.

And so, a (strategic) near flawless gem for Hilltoppers fans and new coach Jeff Brohm to munch on this week. New flawless because the defense surrendered 31 points.

Strategic because the flag momentum has run up the WKU pole this week. Next comes a brag rights and recruiting game signature win chance at Illinois. And a chance at redemption for Doughty. A year ago, on heels of a smartly executed win over Kentucky, WKU went to Knoxville and Doughty had a veritable nervous breakdown against an ordinary Tennessee. The Vols intercepted Doughty five times, scored 24 points in first quarter and won 52-20.

In Champaigne-Urbana this Saturday, he will remember.

Meanwhile, the Hilltoppers's defense has Pretty Work to do.

COLLEGE HOOPS

In a bit of industrious thinking an internet writer posed a list last week called 10 reasons We Can't wait for the College Basketball season to Begin.

The idea was better than the reasons. Two with merit:

√ First look at how scary the ACC will be. "Now that Louisville has arrived to complete the league's roster, it's time for the action on the floor to retake center stage from the action on the map."

√ See if Duke can beat Kentucky at its own game (one-and-dones).

Mike Krzyzewski could start and title compete with four freshmen - Jahlil Okafor, Tyus Jones, Justise Winslow and Grayson Allen.

For local consumption, I would add these ...

√ Will Diddle Arena have back-to-back-to-back sellouts with Hilltoppers in a new league? What impact will Ray Harper's Western Kentucky team have in Conference USA?

√ Bellarmine. Will Scott Davenport have pieces to put together for another national title run?

√ Auburn.
And so it goes.

Personal Records set for Augusta Cross Country runners in week one

The Panthers wasted no time getting into competition mode this season. On the first official day of cross country competition season on August 25, Augusta traveled to the Opening Day Invitational at Sharp Middle School in Pendleton County. With a temperature around 90, it was one of the hottest days of what has been a fairly mild summer.

Augusta junior Camryn Snapp led the way for the Panthers, as well as led the first half of the race. In the end, he finished third, with Pendleton County's Walker Lea and Harrison County's Ross Smith finishing first and second respectively. His first official 5K time of the season came in at 19:17. Next in for the Panthers was Rhys Todd, a new face in the program, who finished 10th in 22:19. Nick Zeidler finished in 23:18, David Reed in 26:04, Jon Barrett in 26:17, and Adam Sallee in 33:45. In the middle school race, Augusta's lone runner, Seth Fouts, came in second place, running the 3K in 13:39.

"Most of the guys weren't real happy with their times," Augusta Coach Tim Litteral stated. "But like I told them, it was hot and we haven't had to train in a lot of hot weather this year and that does make a difference. I also told them that one of the reasons I thought this would be beneficial was to shake the rust off and get in a race at a smaller meet. It let us know where we stand and what they need to work on."

The team returned to action on Saturday, August 30, at the Ryle Invitational in Northern Kentucky. In a much larger meet from week one, several Panther's ran the best race of their lives, literally, as four set a new personal record. Leading Augusta and medaling was Camryn Snapp, pictured above, who placed 16th out of 139 runners and set a new personal record of 17:33. Also setting a PR was Nick Zeidler with a 20:54, David Reed with 21:21, and Jon Barrett with 24:06. Adam Sallee ran a 30:57, and while that was not his PR, it was a nearly three-minute decrease from his first meet. In the middle school race, Seth Fouts ran the 3K in 16:37.

"All of the high school runners not only decreased their times from the meet at Pendleton, but several set new records for themselves, so I'm very pleased about that," Coach Litteral commented. "It is hopefully a good indication that we are headed in the right direction. I'm also happy for Camryn. He sets high expectations for himself, so it's good to see him be where he wants to be. It was also the first time that he's placed at the Ryle meet. There is a lot of tough competition in Northern Kentucky, so I'm pleased with how the whole team responded. They need to take these results as motivation to continue to work hard to improve."

The property shall be sold to the highest and best bidder(s) and said purchaser shall be required to pay cash or the sum of ten percent (10%) of the bid price in cash deposit with the balance of the purchase price to be due and payable in cash or certified funds, within thirty (30) days from the date of sale. The title interest of the parties to the lawsuit will be conveyed without warranty by the Master Commissioner to the purchaser and the purchaser shall receive a deed to property upon payment of the purchase price in full (and costs of sale, if applicable) and after confirmation of the sale by Bracken Circuit Court, subject to any equity of redemption if the property does not sell for two-thirds of its appraised value.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

We picked up trash on the 1159 hill and couldn't believe how much trash we cleaned up. The litter problem is horrible on this road. It is illegal for people to litter and maybe if they were fined for it, there wouldn't be so much. Please do not litter!

New mobile app for boater safety information released

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' new Boat Sober mobile app for smart phones and tablets informs boaters about boating under the influence and overall boating safety.

"It is an awareness campaign of boating under the influence with other boater education components," said Maj. Shane Carrier, assistant director of law enforcement for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "We feel that this app is just one additional tool we can provide to help keep our Kentucky waterways a safe and enjoyable destination for everyone to visit."

Carrier explained that operating a boat after consuming alcohol is more dangerous than operating a motor vehicle on the highway. "There are no lines on the water to help keep you on course; the boat has no brakes and there is no speed limit on the water," he said. "Throw alcohol consumption into the mix and it is truly a recipe for disaster."

The Boat Sober app has a blood alcohol estimator and a button in the shape of a badge to report a reckless boat operator to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife law enforcement. "It also has a feature called impairment goggles," Carrier said. "It gives you an idea of how alcohol consumption impacts your vision."

The app also has a "Find a Marina" button allowing users to find the nearest marina, links to boater education regulations and course schedules for boater safety classes.

"All boat operators from 12 to 17 years of age must have a Kentucky Safe Boating Certificate to operate a boat over 10 horsepower," Carrier said. "We recommend adults who operate boats to take the course as well."

Boaters can also quickly view the boating safety equipment checklist, the "Don't Drink and Drown" button that contains a description of all boating under the influence laws and penalties plus links to paddle sports education sites. The app also has a direct link to the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's Facebook page and Twitter feed.

"We want to create a link between Kentucky Fish and Wildlife and the boaters in our state," Carrier said. "This app will also give us the ability to send push notifications to keep boaters informed when something significant arises."

The app is free for download. Users of Android systems can download the app from Google Play and those with Apple iOS systems can download this app from the Apple Store.

Overseeding Pastures in Kentucky

written by: Ray Smith
submitted by: David Appelman

Overseeding of pastures is an excellent management tool that improves pasture production, forage quality, and ensures a good ground cover the following year without major pasture renovations. Overseeding consists of planting seed in a field with existing grass cover in order to fill in bare patches and thicken the stand. It can be done over the entire pasture or limited to trouble areas. The best time for overseeding is the fall when weed competition is low and ideal growing conditions exist for cool-season grasses.

Controlling competition from weeds is an important step in overseeding. While herbicides are an effective way of controlling weeds, spraying may also hinder young seedlings, resulting in a failed establishment. Carefully check the label for the recommended waiting period before seeding. In general, weeds are less aggressive in the fall, making it the best time to overseed. Usually, close mowing or grazing can help seedlings establish.

Many overseeding applications fail to establish due to grazing the pasture too soon after seeding, and grazing too heavy the first 6-8 months.

Proper seeding method is also an important factor in overseeding success. The goal of any seeding method is to place the seed ¼ to ½ inch into the soil and cover it to achieve good seed to soil contact. Using a no-till drill is recommended to provide the best chance of success. Harrowing before and after broadcast seeding is another seeding method; however it is much less accurate and effective than a no-till drill. Using a cultipacker or roller after the harrow method can help improve seed to soil contact. Finally, frost seeding is an option for overseeding clovers. Frost seeding is broadcasting seed onto the ground during mid to late February and relying on the freeze and thaw cycle to work the seed into the soil. Frost seeding works well with red and white clover, but success is limited with grasses and alfalfa.

Allowing time for seedlings to establish is another critical step in overseeding. Returning livestock to an overseeded pasture too soon can wipe-out any seedlings by grazing or trampling. Ideally, a pasture should have six to eight months of rest after overseeding before heavy grazing resumes; however, a few sessions of light grazing can generally be tolerated by seedlings. Another option is to take a spring hay cutting before returning to full grazing. If it is not possible for animals to be removed from the pasture for six to eight months, consider using temporary fencing and overseeding half of a pasture one year, then the other half the next.

The following recommendations will increase the chances of a successful overseeding application:

- Apply any needed lime and fertilizer amendments – An up-to-date soil test will indicate the needs of many nutrients needed for both established and growing plants. For more information, contact your local County Extension Agent or consult the UK publication Lime and Fertilizer Recommendations, AGR-1 (www.uky.edu/Ag/Forage under "Publications"). A low rate of nitrogen at seeding (30 to 40 lbs/acre) will improve the chances of successful establishment.
- Use high-quality seed of an improved variety – Use a variety that has proven to be a top performer under Kentucky conditions. The University of Kentucky forage testing program tests the survival of cool-season grasses and legumes under grazing and reports these findings in Forage Variety Trials, www.uky.edu/Ag/Forage. High-quality seed has high rates of germination and is free of contamination from weed seed. Remember, quality seed will produce a pasture that lasts for years; "cheap seed" will only lead to headaches.

- Plant enough seed – Seeding rates are determined by the grass mixture to be planted. See Table 1 for the recommended seeding rates for common forage plants.

- Use the best seeding method available – Using a no-till drill is recommended for overseeding, as discussed previously.

- Control competition – Close mowing or grazing prior to overseeding will reduce existing grass and weed competition.

- Allow immature seedlings to become established – In addition to limiting grazing of an overseeded pasture, also limit herbicide applications at critical times. Typically, seeding grasses should not happen until six to eight weeks after spraying and wait an additional six to eight weeks before spraying a newly overseeded stand. With clovers the waiting period for seeding after spraying can be six or more months with some herbicides. Always follow herbicide labels.

- Allow immature seedlings to become established – In addition to limiting grazing of an overseeded pasture, also limit herbicide applications at critical times. Typically, seeding grasses should not happen until six to eight weeks after spraying and wait an additional six to eight weeks before spraying a newly overseeded stand. With clovers the waiting period for seeding after spraying can be six or more months with some herbicides. Always follow herbicide labels.

- Other Considerations When Overseeding - Perennial ryegrass is a short-lived, cool-season grass that has exceptionally high seedling vigor and is often used to thicken up troublesome areas. If perennial ryegrass is seeded at high rates (above 20%) it will outcompete other grasses, which will result in bare spots as perennial ryegrass dies out in two to three years. Perennial ryegrass can be infected with an endophyte similar to that of tall fescue, therefore only endophyte-free perennial ryegrass should be seeded.

- Purchase seed well in advance of overseeding. High quality seed is in high demand in the fall and may not be available at that time.

- Store seed in a cool, dry area to maintain germination levels. Always store in a container that is rodent proof.
